++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
A bright start for some but cloudier in the afternoon.

Today:
A dry start for many with sunny spells. Cloudier in the south at first as outbreaks of light rain move northwards, bringing more cloud inland. Showers are possible anywhere in the afternoon. Maximum temperature 20 deg C (68 deg F).

Tonight:
Staying largely cloudy across Wales tonight with a chance of showers. An area of rain may move into the far south during the small hours. Minimum temperature 13 deg C (55 deg F).

Saturday:
Cloudy on Saturday with scattered showers in the north, heavy at times with a slight risk of thunder. Mostly dry in the south, although the odd shower is still possible. Maximum temperature 21 deg C (70 deg F).

Outlook for Sunday to Tuesday:
Cloudy with showery rain on Sunday. Scattered showers on Monday, potentially heavy with a risk of thunder and hail. Drier on Tuesday with sunny spells.
